

ZEALANDIA CAME IN THE NIGHT

Contrary to general expectations, the Zealandia was sighted off Koko Head about 11 o'clock last night, and at 12:30 the Advertiser received two days' later news of the outside world from the vessel, which came to anchor off the channel. The Advertiser is indebted to Gilbert Brokaw, former master of the tug Fearless, for obtaining its package of papers just as the launch came to the ship's ladder. Andrew Brown's cheery voice was heard inquiring whether there was any water in Honolulu. The vessel left San Francisco at 2 p. m. June 23. She will come to the Oceanic dock at daylight this morning. She has a small consignment of cold storage stuffs. Captain Dowdell is in command. She expects to leave for San Francisco on July 3. The Alameda will take her regular run next trip. Following is the Zealandia's passenger list:

Dr. Edward Armitage, Captain Brokaw, A. Brown, J. Camp, Miss G. Carroll, Miss Gussie Clark, Miss L. H. Corson, Miss May Dexter, Mrs. George De La Vergne, G. D. Graham, Mrs. Graham, M. Hall, A.
